Circuit Court.

Judge John E. Cooper who was really not able to occupy the bench at all during the short term of Circuit Court was so broken down on Friday evening as to give his friends grave cause for alarm. Saturday he was better but not able to take his place on the bench and Mr. M. S. Tyler was elected Special Judge. The cases of three negro boys, Will Johnson, John Bondurant and Wes. Chenuant, charged with breaking into J. C. Enoch's store came up and they were tried and given three years each in the pen.

The first official act Judge Tyler was called upon to perform after he took his seat was to sign the license of Henry Watson to practice law. Mr. Watson had been examined by Messrs. Winn and Young who pronounced him entitled to license. So Henry is a full fledged lawyer and ready to take any and all cases in trust to him.

In an interview, W. H. Griffin, late chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Colorado, said Colorado would give its vote to whatever party nominates a free-silver candidate.

A SHOOTING.

Archie Fitzpatrick Shoots and Wounds Sam Greenwade.

VERY NARROW ESCAPE.

Sunday morning Archie Fitzpatrick shot and wounded his cousin, Sam Greenwade at W. T. Fitzpatrick's stable on Locust street.

The facts as we are able to gather them are about as follows: Some days since when W. T. Fitzpatrick left with a shipment of horses for the Norfolk market he placed his nephew Sam Greenwade in charge of his interests here. Soon after he left Archie Fitzpatrick another nephew went to his uncle W. T. Fitzpatrick's farm and drove in a steer which he proposed to sell to a butcher in town, Sam Greenwade hearing of this took the steer back to the pasture, Archie on finding he was stopped from raising money on his uncle's stock wore he would kill Greenwade on sight. Sunday morning they met in the stable

The Republican Convention.

The State Convention held by the Republicans at Louisville the past week was not the tamely harmonious affair Kentucky Republican Conventions have heretofore been. The friends of Bre'r Bradley and Bre'r McKinley were at each other's throat in regular thug style. After a long wrangle it was finally agreed to give Bradley first and McKinley second instructions. This was a bitter pill for the friends of Governor Bradley to swallow but they saw it was this or worse. But the way that convention wasn't unaminoously harmonious was an exceedingly pleasant sight to the on-looking Democrats.

Judge H. R. French is being pushed by his friends as a Delegate from this district to the National Democratic Convention. No better, truer, or more self-sacrificing Democrat lives in the district than is our countyman Judge H. R. French. For disinterested devotion to party he has no superior anywhere. He deserves and should receive the endorsement of the district. We hope to see Judge French given the small honor he craves.

Death of R. C. Nunnelley.

On Saturday Mr. W. R. Nunnelley of this city was summoned to the bedside of his father R. C. Nunnelley, of Georgetown. Yesterday a message was received stating that Mr. Nunnelley had died. Mr. Nunnelley was seventy-four years old and had been married fifty-one years. He leaves a wife and seven children, had been a member of the Baptist Church for many years and was an upright Christian gentleman. His death is a great loss to family, church and friends. He had many warm friends in this and both counties. Mrs. W. R. Nunnelley and son Eliot were here this morning to attend the

and a quarrel ensued, Archie drawing his pistol and young Greenwade seizing a stick of stove wood.

Greenwade had no chance to strike before Fitzpatrick had his pistol leveled at his breast and he instinctively threw up his arm to ward off the bullet. Archie fired and the bullet struck a cuff button and rang along the arm held up for defense making a severe though probably not a dangerous wound. It was a narrow escape however for the young man. The wounded man was attended by Dr. Cox who soon spiegged in making him as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. Young Fitzpatrick did his best for some time to sustain his reputation for courage. He has been in many ugly scrapes and by one means and another has thus far escaped any serious punishment. But it seems bent on breaking into virginia, in spite of all his friends to do him harm.

Sam Greenwade is said to be a quiet orderly young man and received his hurt because he was endeavoring to faithfully discharge the trust his uncle had reposed in him.

Clem Acquitted.

Chas. Clem was tried in the Circuit Court Friday on the charge of an attempted rape on the person of the eight-year-old daughter of Thos. Fuditt living near Jeffersonville this county. Young Clem was arrested some months since and placed in jail here on this charge. It was supposed the community had a strong case, but when the defense, which was ably conducted by Messrs. G. Egbert Coons and Judge B. F. Day, took the evidence in hand they managed to throw quite a different light on the matter. The accused has reason to be grateful to his lawyers for the skillful manner in which they handled a charge which is the easiest to make and the hardest to disprove on any court's docket.

Several most estimable and popular widows of our town have been receiving the attention of a like number of estimable widowers for quite a time past, and some of our irreverent youngsters have dubbed them "the kids." The first break in this merry crowd occurred last week, when two popular and most excellent Sheriff, Wm. Sled led to the altar Mrs. Fannie Denton, whom no purer woman ever became a man's helpmate.

We are informed that there will be another break in the ranks of "the kids," as two more of them will then join their fortunes for weal or woe.

The friends of the two couples are legion, and the hearty expressions of good wishes for their future happiness are to be heard on every side.

The K. W. C. base ball team, of Winchester, defeated the U. S. team at that place last Saturday by a score of 19 to 13. Wood and Davis, of this city, were the battery for the K. W. C.'s, and acquitted themselves with credit. Davis was, as usual, very effective with the stick, while Wood carried off the honors of the day by batting out (out of five times at bat), two clean two-batters, two one-base hits and one sacrifice. Nugent also did some pretty field work, making line throw to second base which brought out many complications.

The K. W. C. plays State College at Winchester next Saturday.

West Lexington Presbytery.

West Lexington Presbytery convenes this (Tuesday) evening in the Southern Presbyterian Church at 7:15 o'clock. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. W. O. Shumaker, of Jackson, Ky. The Presbyterical sermon on the doctrine of sanctification will be delivered on Wednesday evening at 7:30 by Rev. J. J. Chisholm of Winchester. Public cordially invited to attend.

A man's health is the rope by which he climbs to success. If he can keep his health he will go on to success. Yet his health is the very thing he neglects more than anything else. It is easier to keep health than to regain it. When a man feels himself running down, when he realizes a loss of vitality and energy, he must call a halt. The strands of his rope are parting rapidly. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped thousands of men in just this condition. It makes health, it makes pure, rich blood, it forces out impurities and kills germs. It doesn't make any difference what name you call your trouble by—dyspepsia—kidney disease—rheumatism—consumption—skin disease, the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure it absolutely. None of these diseases can retain hold on the body when it is full of pure, rich blood.

Send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and receive free a copy of Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

C. C. Freeman, Jeweler, of this city, has placed his stock in the hands of an agent of his creditors to sell it till they shall have paid themselves the debts he owes them. Mr. D'Arcy is here in behalf of the creditors and is duly holding auction sales.

The prayer meeting at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening will be held at 7 o'clock in order to give an opportunity to attend the services at the Southern church.

Examination and Licensure.

On Wednesday next Coleman O. Groves will stand his examination and preach his trial sermon before West Lexington Presbytery at 10:30 a.m. This will be a matter of interest to his young friends of this city. If you will be present you will have an opportunity to know something of what is required in the way of attainment in a young man before he can become a licensed minister of the Presbyterian Church, South.

Samuel Salter writes from his home in Pikeville, "enclosed find my check which pays for ADVOCATE to 1897. I hope to continue a subscriber to your paper as long as it so ably advocates Democratic doctrines."

We admit that we appreciate compliments, but more do we appreciate results from our labors in strengthening Democrats and converting others to saving doctrines. Democrats must put on their armor and go to battle the enemy with a zeal of victory. Give us Democracy represented by brave men, men who are patriots, who are for the entire people and this country, the grandest in the world will be the pride of all nations.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce

JUDGE WM. M. BECKNER, of Clark County, a candidate for Congress, in the 10th Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce

JUDGE JOHN E. COOPER,
of Madison County, a candidate for Congress, in the 10th Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

If the Democrats expect to get a single slice of the good things this fall, there must be a flopping together of the divided wings. There are too many discordant elements in the party that seem bent upon spreading animosities still more. We cannot hope for success unless we can bring ourselves to a better state of thinking along these lines. Democrats must lay aside personal prejudices and personal spite and be willing to accept the man the majority say is the best the party had to select from for the position to be filled. It is quite true that there arises times when county, district, and state lines should be forgotten and in order to select the best man we should go away from home to find him. At the same time we should be very sure we are not being blinded by mere personal likes and dislikes in this matter. No Democrat is to be blamed for anti-gouging "a home man" if he has honestly weighed his fitness for the position and found him wanting. But in doing this we should be very sure our reason for refusing support to such a man is one we can present at the bar of our own self-respect and find an acquittal from conscience. If we are going to elect this fall it will take a united party to go to the polls. The lesson we had last fall should have taught us some things. Unless we get together a nomination is not only a costly but an empty honor.

Since the announcement of Judge John E. Cooper's candidacy for Congress, the many friends of Mr. M. S. Tyler have been urging him to become a candidate for Circuit Judge of this district, in the event of a vacancy in said office by reason of Judge Cooper securing the Congressional nomination. While it would hardly be proper for him to formally announce himself a candidate just now, yet we feel confident that Mr. Tyler will not be able to resist the urgent demand of his friends to permit his name in connection with said office at the proper time, either in the event of a vacancy as suggested or at the end of Judge Cooper's term.

McKinley vs. The Field.

Revised figures as to the delegate votes instructed for each of the candidates for the Republican presidential nomination show that up to date Mr. McKinley has 318, Reed 90, Morton 66, Allison 35, Quay 35, Bradley 16, Culbertson 12. Twenty-one other votes are in doubt, making a total of 698 delegates selected—about two-thirds of the entire number. The McKinley men claim more delegates than are given him in this estimate. His managers say that he has 376 votes, and that he will get Ohio and Indiana solid. They are also preparing to make a hard fight against Culbertson in the Illinois convention, which meets April 28—Courter-Journal.

Hon. Jo M. Kendall, member of Congress, weekly reader of the ADVOCATE says of us: "I commend your conservative course on the political issue. It is Democracy. These are both gold and silver cracks."

We repeat what we have before said, we are for our party and will stand by and work with the majority. The party is greater than the man and so long as we believe the principles of the Democratic party are for the interests of the people we will be found in line not as nominal Democrats but as workers. The party must work in harmony with Republicans will gain the National Administration and the same extravagance of former years will be resorted to and this government will be made to suffer more than now. That the Republican party is responsible for the financial scandal of the intelligent man be he Democrat, Republican or Independent can deny and maintain. The heavy expenditures and class legislature of today have grown out of the Republican administration and the remedy for these evils must come from the Democratic party.

Gov. Bradley is back in Frankfort after a week's continuous absence at Louisville and elsewhere.

To the Democrats of the Tenth Congressional District:

When I announced my candidacy for Congress some time ago, I had every expectation that in spite of a general condition of ill-health to which I am not accustomed, I would soon be able to see you in your respective counties, and give you my reasons why I sought the nomination at your hands at this time.

Since that announcement, however, my illness has suddenly assumed a more serious form—so serious, indeed, that I am not only physically incapacitated from making a canvass of the district, but my physician tells me that if persisted in it can only be at the risk of dangerous and probably fatal results to my life in the end. Hence nothing is left me but reluctantly to announce my withdrawal from the contest.

To my many friends throughout the district who have given me such cheering assurances of their friendship and support, I desire to return to one and to all, my profound and grateful thanks, and to express to them the hope that after a short season of rest and recuperation I may be able to see and more fully thank them in person for the cordial consideration which they have always so generously accorded me.

JOHN E. COOPER.

Charged With Horse Stealing.

For some time past horse owners of this and several surrounding counties have been suffering at the hands of horse thieves. Although officers have been on the trail of these offenders they have not been able to secure evidence sufficient to warrant an arrest till now. For several days officials have been trying to arrest two young men Ed and Will Henry, sons of Pat Henry, a well-to-do and respectable farmer of Nicholas county. On Saturday Will Henry was arrested near Edizville in Fleming county and placed in jail at Carlisle. The young men are respectably connected and their conduct is a source of great grief to those connected with them by blood. Ed Henry has not been arrested at this time.

Horse Show.

The stallion show which occurs annually on April court day took place to-day. There was only eight stallions shown and a very small crowd went to the show ring. Dr. McMillan, of Paris, Ky., had Bourbon Russell, John T. Woodford had Forest Denmark, A. G. Jones, of Northpoint, distill, had Highland Chief, John B. Miller, of Clark county, had Black Boy, Wyatt & Johnson had Bourbon Chief and Montgomery Squirrel Miller, of Clark county, had King Denmark, Ragan & Wilson had their saddle stallion, Black King, and the fine mare Jack, Parish.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church closed with the three o'clock service on Friday, Rev. J. O. A. Vaught preached each day for eleven days, and Dr. W. T. Boling, five days. The people of Mt. Sterling heard preaching of a high order from both these gentlemen—such preaching as would become any pulpit in the land. Dr. Boling captivated Mt. Sterling by his splendid oratory, as Mr. Vaught had done by his superior preaching. Much good was done during the continuance of these meetings. There were twenty-two accessions.

Baptist Church.

Pastor Gill preached morning and evening to large congregations. An absorbing interest was manifested at both services. Four additions at the morning service and one at the evening. Seven persons baptized and received into the church. Baptismal service next Sunday evening at 7:30.

James H. Evans, of Winchester, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Evans, who is a candidate for County Judge of Clark county, is a hustler of the first rank and the enthusiastic following his candidacy has already developed indicates very plainly that the next man who occupies the wool sack in the County Judges' office of Clark will be named Evans.

Death of James Turley.

Mr. James Turley, aged 84 years, died at his home one mile South of this city at 12 m. yesterday, April 20, of heart failure. Mr. Turley was one of the old landmarks of our county, his whole life having been passed here. To the upbuilding of the county he gave the enthusiasm of his youth, the strength of his manhood and the wisdom of his mature years. He has been active in the business here for more than 65 years. As a farmer and trader and as a merchant, always doing business on an extensive scale, he came in contact with a wide circle of people. From 1863 to 1873 he and J. D. Hazelrigg, of this city, were in partnership, conducting a dry goods business on an extensive scale. In his long business career he experienced disasters as well as successes, but whether success or failure stared him in the face, he never lost his courage or determination to carry his plans to a successful issue. He died possessed of a large share of this world's goods.

Mr. Turley did not connect himself with any church till he had gone far toward the evening of life, but some twelve years ago he made a profession of religion and connected himself with the Christian church, giving his Master the faithful service of his declining years.

More than fifty years ago he was married to Miss Julia Davis who survives him together with three sons Amos and Samuel residing in this county and Zachariah, of Chicago, and Mrs. Henrietta Orear, of this city. The funeral service will be held tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the Christian church in this city, Rev. H. D. Clark assisted by Rev. W. T. Tibbs will conduct the service.

April Court Day.

April Court-day was hot and dry which affected the trade very much. There was between five and six hundred cattle on the market with no good cattle for sale. 'Trade' was dull and cattle were very hard to dispose of. Some 800lb steers sold at $2. Yearlings at about same price. Cows and heifers at from $2 to $2.50. Bulls and stags at $1.75 to $2.50. There was quite a number of cattle that were not sold.

SALES.

Blevins & Williams sold a lot of 350lb heifers at $2.60; Salyers & Gardner sold twenty 500lb heifers at $2.70; J. M. Rose sold a lot of heifers to a Bath County party at about $2.75; he also sold some 700lb steers at $3; J. C. Lewis, of this county, bought some 800lb steers at $3; Salyers & Co. sold to Mr. Noble, of Nicholas county, a lot of heifers at $2.80; O. H. Downing, of Menifee county, sold thirteen 600lb heifers to Mr. Craig, of Bourbon county, at $2.25; Lyons & Sample sold twelve 500lb heifers at $2.50.

HORSES AND MULES.

No miles of any consequence for sale. There was some demand for large mules but none on the market. There was several horse buyers looking for some good horses but few sales were made. Mr. Jewell, of Mt. Hope, W. Va., wanted some miling mules but he bought only three or four head; Mr. Beard, of Carothers & Beard, Lexington, Ky., also wanted some large mules but did not find anything to suit him. Horse men were M. Nichols, W. W. Adams, A. L. Harrison, all of Lexington, and T. J. Davis, of Winchester.

It Saves Lives Every Day.

Thousands of cases of Consumption & Asthma, Coughs, Colds and Croup are cured every day by Shilton's Cure, Thos. Kennedy.

A two-year-old elk drawing an ordinary buggy with a man driving started into the town of Aberdeen, Wash., a few days ago. The elk was harassed in the usual way, was in every way as tractable as a horse, and stood quietly when tied up to hitching post.

Mr. Victor Cavendish is about to sell at auction the famous Holker Hall fleet of shordhorns, probably the best in the world, which belonged to the late Duke of Devonshire. These have been only six sales at Holker during forty years, but they brought $300,000.

A cat belonging to a resident of Cameron, Mo., is nursing a litter of wild rabbits and caring for them with maternal solicitude. Several kittens were born to the cat a week or so ago, but they all died. A neighbor found a nest of very young wild rabbits about the same time, and they were put in charge of the cat, with the happy result told.

Forty-five years ago Squire Turner and Anna Gillispe of McLean county, Ill., were in love and engaged to be married. A lover's quarrel came up and Turner went West. Last week he repented of his baseness and sent for Miss Gillispe to meet him in Cedarville, Kan., and accept his apology and his hand, and they were married there a few days ago. Mr. Turner is 73 years old and his wife is 63.

A new town to be occupied exclusively by colored persons, is soon to be founded near Tecumseh, Kan., and will be named Sumner. A syndicate of colored people have bought 2,000 acres of choice land, which will be subdivided and sold at a low price and on easy terms. It is said that the establishment of several manufacturers in the new town is assured, and the promoters expect the enterprise to be a success. The new town of Fitzgerald, Ga., started recently by settlers from the Northern States, is notable because of the fact that no colored person is permitted to work or live in it under any circumstances.

Farmers in the region about Fresno, Cal., are almost in despair because of the plague of rabbits. Although many thousand of the animals have been killed lately in one way or another, by poison, by shooting, and in gassed drives, they do not appear to decrease in numbers. Thousands have been shot in a day, but they come in from the surrounding uncultivated regions to feast on the grain fields in increasing numbers. It is estimated that three jack rabbits will eat as much grain as one sheep. A big drive was held in February and many thousands of rabbits were killed but a month later it was estimated there were 100,000 on the same ground. Another drive was held the same week.

A DESPERADO'S NERVE.
His Affability toward the Man Who Had Come to Hang Him.

J. K. Chambers, Union depot tickert agent, when in a reminiscent mood, can tell many interesting stories of the west in early days.

He was in the service of the government at Sydney when that town was the toughest place in Nebraska, if not in the west, and whence persons bound for the Black Hills started.

A few days ago Mr. Chambers was sitting in the Milwaukee city office, and the conversation turned to early days in the transmississippi country and bravery.

"The man of iron nerve I saw in Sydney in 1877," said Mr. Chambers, "was a real gentleman, scarcely more than a boy, and I should judge had not reached his majority."

"He was a tough man even in Sydney, and his reputation was sustained, for he always carried a revolver and he would shoot at the drop of the hat. His name was Doug Reed.

"It was said around town that he would never die a natural death.

"That turned out to be true, as he was lynched by a mob one morning, and that is where he displayed his nerve.

"The lynchers took the keys and unlocked the doors and went into the cell where Reed was.

"He was smoking a cigar when the men came in, and when he saw them he looked up as cool as you please.

"'Good evening, gentlemen. I suppose you are going to take me out and hang me,' he said as nonchalantly as though he was asking them to take a drink.

"He was told that he was correct in his supposition.

"He got up as unconsciously as you please, and putting on his coat remarked that he was all ready if the mob were to come.

"He walked through the jail and out into the moonlight, smoking his cigar and even making little rings of smoke.

"He simply glanced up at the moon, and turning to one of the men asked him where he was going to be swung off, saying that it was of no use walking a man a mile or so out into the country.

"He was marched up the street to a telegraph pole that stood in the very heart of the town.

"By that time half the townspeople were gathered, and the condemned one had been brought along, and it was slipped over his head, and he was bound.

"'I can't climb that pole and fall off. I ought to have a ladder so as I can get up,' he said, and accordingly a ladder was brought and placed against the pole. He was asked if he had anything to say and remarked that he hadn't, and if he had he wouldn't.

"When the ladder was placed against the pole, one of the men started up to tie one end of the rope about the pole.

"'You need do that,' he said, "you will unwind those cords about my wrists I'll do it."

"The cords were unwound, and he climbed up the pole as far as the ladder reached and fastened the rope around the pole.

"When he had done this he looked around over the crowd, standing very quietly then, and called out:

"'Goodby, boys!'

"With that he jumped off the ladder, and in a few minutes his lifeless body was swinging there.

"His nerve never forsook him once. He acted through it all just as though he was used to it. He was the nerviest man I ever met."

—Omaha World-Herald.

An Unlucky Bungle.

On the 21st of December, 1885, Admiral Dundas gave up the command of the fleet and returned to England. He was succeeded by Admiral Lyons, whom and Dundas a signal part took place which will long be remembered as a standing joke in the navy.

As Admiral Dundas left the fleet at Kamiesch the crews of both English and French ships manned the guns and gave him a parting cheer. At the same moment, by the desire of Dundas, a signal was run up to Sir E. Lyons on board the Agamemnon, "May success attend you," to which Sir E. Lyons ordered to be hoisted in reply, "May happiness await you."

But though in real life happiness and happiness are generally considered to be very closely connected, yet in the signal code they are very much alike. Unfortunately, in the hurry to reply to Admiral Dundas, the flag for the former instead of the latter word was hoisted, and what was worse the stupid blunder was not discovered and haulled down till the whole fleet had seen and read it.—Pearson's Weekly.

MODERN DANCING.

The majority of its most famous exponents at the present day are, strictly speaking, not dancers at all, but either acrobats or else dependent for their chief effects on lime-light, colored glass, sticks and hundreds of yards of drapery. Even our own stage performances have surrendered to the temptation of dressing up with the head over head business, just as a vulgar singer must always wind up with a high note. In fashionable society, it is true, there has been of late years a certain one-sided reversal, owing to the craze for skirt dancing, but men dance execrably. It must be assigned in great part to the enormous multiplication of pastimes in the last 30 years. Before the seventies men shot and hunted and played cricket, but since that date we have witnessed the spread of polo, the rise and decline of lawn tennis, golf and bicycling, to say nothing of the enormously greater demands made on the leisure of the average person by the claims of music, which has now in great measure superseded the art of which it was once the handmaid.

For the bullet, once the great attraction to the average opera-goer, has been excommunicated by the high priests of the modern music drama. There has been no bullet in any opera of real note, with the sole exception of Bizet's "Carmen," since the Paris version of "Tannhauser," in 1861. All these facts have contributed to the decline of dancing in the last 30 years.—London World.

ENTRANCE IS PROHIBITED.

One cannot stroll far over the hills in any direction beyond Vladivostok without finding the road barred by a high wall inscribed with the words "Entrance is Prohibited." The entrance is Prohibited."

The walk through the jail and out into the moonlight, smoking his cigar and even making little rings of smoke.

"He simply glanced up at the moon, and turning to one of the other three languages will probably suffice to warn him that he will indulge his curiosity at his personal peril. The work of fort building is going on with the greatest vigor. The streets swarm with soldiers. Their officers are all in uniform, with black capes around their necks, in signs of mourning for the late Emperor Alexander III. They are solid, broad-chested, round limbed men, many being tall as well as stout. They have white summer caps with the imperial badge in front; dark trousers, with red stripes; sword hung on strap from right shoulder. Those with spurs on their high boots do not seem to ride with these stimuli, but to use them for traveling on steamers, driving or walking. The fact is that on Russian territory every employee of the government has to be in uniform all the time." One million troops were mobilized in eastern Siberia in the summer of 1895, and I can well believe it.—Forthnightly Review.

—Artificial Cotton.

The matter of educating artificial cotton from wood pulp is treated by the textile engineers as an actual industry, and the results are quite encouraging. The pulp is made from eucalyptus, sassafras, wood, one of the most successful processes of manufacturing being described as follows:

Whitewood is considered preferable, being chipped, digested and otherwise prepared. The pulp gets a bath in a liquid composed of methyl, alcohol and sodium, and after standing overnight the operations of treating the threads are undertaken and accomplished by the use of an ingeniously adapted machine, the method of getting the pulp into a cellulose form conducted on the regular lines now pretty well known to pulp manufacturers, the principal point in this instance being, of course, the subject of the thread to such a process as will change the character from a paper or wood yarn to a superior cotton. Mention is made of several plans for the production of cotton from paper, but while most of these fail to result in a substance which will stand washing the solidifying emulsion employed in the process must be more fully introduced, it is asserted, making the threads waterproof, as it coats the fibers, rendering the latter white and readily woven.

"In days gone by the Ohio courts held sessions at different county seats at certain periods known as court terms. To accommodate the large crowds of litigants and witnesses who would flock in from points for miles around the county seat when court was in session, the county authorities erected sheds near the courthouse, where the litigants and their witnesses could sit and feed their horses while they attended court, and these sheds became known as horse sheds. Now owing to the limited space of the court rooms, the lawyers, who always traveled with the court, were unable to hold a private consultation with their clients and witnesses inside the walls, and so they used to take them under the horse sheds and there talk matters over with them.

"Among the attorneys who attended court at Chester, the county seat of Meigs county, on one occasion was Tom Ewing and Samuel F. Vinton. The Court was ready to go on with the case in which the two noted attorneys were retained as opposing counsel, when it was discovered that Vinton was not present. The Court looked carefully around and then said:

"Where is Mr. Vinton?

"I don't know, your Honor" said Ewing, rising to his feet; "he is here, but he is probably outside horse-shedding his witness."

"The remark raised a general laugh, and thereafter the word "horse-shedding a witness" passed into popular parlance."—Washington Post.

The average creamy output in Connecticut was 68,228 pounds of butter in '95 according to Dairy Commissioner Burlingame. The 62 creameries turned out a total of 4,230,000 pounds of butter last year. A number of creameries sell milk and cream largely, making little butter.

France pays a bounty on silk cocoons of about 40¢ per kilogram of 2.2 lbs., this amounting recently to a little more than $1,000,000 annually. In view of the importance France places upon the industry, the modest sum asked by Kansas seems worthy of recognition, providing it will accomplish the ends proposed.—(American Agriculturist.)

Susan Glendinning died suddenly at Islington recently, being 95 years of age. She had plenty of money, was in good health, and very active, but was in the habit of drinking a bottle and a half of brandy a day. The Coroner thought she had taken a long time to kill herself, and his jury brought in a verdict of death from natural causes.

One effect of overcentralization of which French authors complain is the restriction in the number of new plays produced. Whereas there were in France last year 182 first performances, in Italy, where the production of a play at Turin, Florence, Milan, or Naples is of as much importance as its performance at Rome, the number of new plays was 200.

Sunflower seed makes such an excellent chicken feed that some of these plants ought to be raised upon every farm. They can be planted in fence corners along roads and similar places on ground that would not otherwise be occupied. If space of this kind is not available a row can be planted on the edge of a cornfield and given the same culture as corn. Mixed with other grains can be fed with profit to all farm animals.

There appears to be a great demand in England for California redwood, and while in California the wood is very common and is used for building fences and barns, in England it commands a fancy price. Last week a ship took aboard at Oakland a cargo of more than 1,000,000 feet of redwood, and another ship was preparing to take on an even larger load. The shipments were a novelty and a speculation, and if they bring good results the California lumbermen will have a new avenue of profit opened to them.

Deplorable as is the partial destruction of the sheep industry to which the enormous slaughter the past two years points, this has its redeeming feature. With largely increased supplies of inexpensive mutton in the retail market stalls, consumers have learned as never before the admirable qualities and flavor of this wholesome food. A better acquaintance with American mutton must result in a steadily increasing demand for home butcher purposes. Testimony of those best able to judge shows that this is already noteworthy.

Inter-State emigration still continues to a considerable extent, and there is a constant movement of dissatisfied farmers from one region to another. Last week forty families moved from the country about Delphi, Indiana, out to North Dakota. At the same time families were moving from North Dakota to the South, and the Northwestern papers print frequent paragraphs telling of persons leaving the Union and of other persons moving there. The circumstances appear odd, but they seem to show that no one place is everybody's paradise, despite the eloquence of the land boomers.

Episode In The Life Of The Late John A. Cockerill.

HIS SHOOTING OF COL. SLAYBACK.

A Missouri Congressman's

counter.

COCKERILL A BRAVE MAN.

The death of Col. John A. Cockerill, the correspondent of the New York Herald, was sad intelligence to a number of Congressmen with whom the brilliant journalist was on terms of intimate friendship during his life. One of these is Amos Cummings, and another is Charles F. Joy, of St. Louis. Cummings knew him in New York as managing editor of the World, as editor of the Advertiser, and as President of the New York Press Club. Joy knew him as editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and was closer to him than any other man, as his friend and attorney when he shot and killed Col. Alowez W. Slayback on the 12th of October, 1883.

Cockerill, Joy and Slayback were all members of the Elks, which in St. Louis is a particularly popular institution among the prominent professional men of the city. The fall election was coming on and James O. Broadhead, late Minister to Switzerland, was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress against ex-Congressman Glover. The Post-Dispatch, under Cockerill's management, although a Democratic paper, was bitterly opposing Broadhead. The latter was the law partner of Col. Slayback. Slayback had been in the Confederate army, and was a man of dashing impulses and strong partisanship. The attack of the Post-Dispatch on Broadhead became a personal matter with him, and one day in the Elk's club-rooms Col. Slayback in an excited state of mind bitterly denounced Cockerill for his editorial course. Cockerill was present, and for a while quietly listened to the violent language of Slayback. At last he sent one of his friends to him and asked him to step into the Secretary's room.

Slayback, together with Mr. Joy and another mutual friend, entered the room where Cockerill was waiting for him. Explanations were attempted, but Slayback continued his abuse of the editor, and talked freely of pistols and duels. When Cockerill had listened awhile, it was apparent that his good nature, which he had so far preserved, was rapidly deserting him, and drawing himself to his full height and folding his arms across his chest, he said:

"Col. Slayback, whenever you choose to call me out I will meet you with a 44-caliber pistol across a handkerchief."

There was that in the deliberate announcement of the angry journalist that convinced his opponent that he meant every word, and from that moment Slayback's indignation subsided, and peace was apparently re-established between the two men. They cracked a few bottles of wine with their friends and Cockerill went so far in his conciliatory attitude as to volunteer to publish one of Col. Slayback's campaign speeches, and it was printed shortly after in the Post-Dispatch.

Several days elapsed, and the affair at the Elk's Club was nearly forgotten, when Col. Slayback in one of his stump speeches, denounced Cockerill; called him a blackmailer, and announced that if Cockerill ever printed any reference to him in his paper he would go to his office and kill him.

Cockerill had served in the Union army and as a drummer boy, and he was not of the stuff that cowards are made of. He wrote a paragraph referring to Col. Slayback in no complimentary terms for insertion in that afternoon's paper, and walked down town to eat his dinner. On the way he met Mr. Joy, to whom he communicated what Slayback had threatened to do and what he had written for that afternoon's paper. He invited him to take dinner with him, and on the way stopped at an arms' supply store, where he purchased a forty-four caliber revolver.

They ate dinner and parted. Cockerill returned to the Post-Dispatch office and laid his revolver on his desk, covering it with a newspaper, and then proceeded to make up the Sunday morning edition.

About 4 o'clock that Saturday afternoon Col. Slayback accompanied by William H. Klopton, present United States District Attorney, suddenly entered the small editorial room in which Cockerill had his desk. Both men were armed. Slayback confronted Cockerill, who was seated and exclaimed: "Well, here I am!" With that he placed his hand on his revolver and made a motion to draw it from his hip pocket. Klopton also is said to have attempted to draw his weapon. Before Slayback could level his pistol, Cockerill had his under the paper on his desk. There was sharp report and Slayback fell forward.

The bullet from Cockerill's pistol had passed through his heart and lungs, and as he fell the blood gushed from his mouth and covered Cockerill's shirt front and vest.

Cockerill's pistol next was directed at Klopton. He stepped across the body of Col. Slayback, but, as Klopton made no motion to interfere with him, passed out of the room. His pistol he handed to Henry Moore one of the editorial writers on the Post-Dispatch, in another room, and then walked out of the building.

The shooting was noiseless about the city at lightning speed. Ten minutes later Mr. Joy heard of it. He found Cockerill, hustled him into a closed carriage, and drove him to a friend's house down town. The object was to gain time for deliberation. There some other friends of the journalist found him, and some one brought him a change of clothing, and they talked about the situation. It was decided to surrender him to the police, who were securing the city and traying Joy. The latter drove at midnight to police headquarters. He found chief Campbell there, and briefly informed him that the friends of the editor had decided to give him up. He stipulated, however, that he (the chief) alone should be allowed to take him. To make sure that no others or friends would accompany him, Joy proposed that they drive by separate conveyances and separate routes to a designated point in the city, and then meet.

This arrangement was in part prompted by the fact that a bitter antebellum feeling had been engendered as a result of the tragedy by the partisans of Col. Slayback, in account of his Confederate record, and threats of lynching had been freely made in various parts of the city where the dead man had been especially popular. Chief Campbell drove to the residence of his buggy, and Joy met him there in his own conveyance, and the two together proceeded to the place where Cockerill was kept concealed.

It was 4 o'clock Tuesday morning when the little party approached the prison, Joy's visit to police headquarters and the fact that he was going to surrender Cockerill, had become known to Slayback's friends, and several hundred people were congregated in front of the prison. They were suspected of a design to lynch the editor, and Chief Campbell suggested that Joy would drive alone to the prison entrance in a closed carriage, while Campbell and his prisoner would drive to a side door and thus thwart the design of the crowd. The carriage arrived, and while the mob surrounded the carriage in which Joy was seated, Campbell and Cockerill slipped into the building unnoticed. Joy was not molested.

Cockerill remained in confinement three days and nights, during which Joy was his constant companion. In the solitude of the cell Cockerill showed the intensest grief over the issue of the writer. More eloquently justified in his act by the circumstances, he weepingly deplored the fatality that had led him to kill Slayback instead of Slayback killing him.

"He has a wife and two daughters," said Cockerill, in tears. "I am alone in the world, except one sister, who is married, and who would have been soon consigned had I been killed instead."

On the third day the court admitted him to bail. The sum was fixed at $30,000, and it was signed by so many of his friends that an extra sheet had to be attached to the bail bond.

The grand jury considered the case, but the evidence was so conclusively in favor of Col. Cockerill that no true bill was found. The prosecuting attorney tried by every legal method at Crit Davis is preparing Coast Boy 2:10 and Cadet 2:14 for the campaign.

Ed de Cerna recently offered $10,000 for Onoqua 2:04. Her owner, L. P. Storer, of McGregor, Ia., holds her at $14,000.

James McGowan has placed his fast filly Russie Clay, 2:21 in the stable of Richard Curtis this season. Mr. Curtis will campaign her.

Honeywood 2:14 and the fast mare Capitolo Fisk 2:30, which were shipped to Europe late in the fall, are in Dan McPhee's stable in Europe.

Breeders should remember that beauty as well as speed brings the money, and that size without a handsome appearance will avail nothing.

It is not at all impossible that Mr. Bonner will go after the world's record this year with Sunol, 2:04. She is being jogged regularly every day, and is reported sound.

William Crutt, Liverpool, England, has purchased the seven-year-old bay mare, Loumont, 2:18, by Tremont, sire by Louis Napoleon, and the nine-year-old bay mare Lulu Stanton 2:18, by General Stanton, dam by Highland. Mr. Crutt is the president of the Trotting Union of Great Britain and Ireland.

It is announced that Budd Doble will soon leave for Europe, to be gone several months, in the interest of his mining deals. He has had a gold mine in California for twenty-five years and is now trying to develop it. It is said that whatever may be his fate in other enterprises he will never again get into the sulky as a professional reinman.

The championship of Europe will be decided at Baden, Germany, in August. Last year this race was won by Speifford. It is an international harness contest, mile heats, best three in five, for a purse of $3,500. A gold medal will be given to the winner of the European mile record is broken.

Louisville Tobacco Market.

Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 3793 hds., with receipts for the same period 1420 hds. Sales on our market since January 1 amount to 63,965 hds. Sales of the crop of 1895 on our market to date amount to 61,406 hds.

Receipts have been very light this week as a result of the recent unfavorable weather for prizing the crop. A considerable per cent. of the offerings this week have been in soft condition which has of course had an unfavorable effect upon values. There has been no very recent change in values for new burley in fair condition but the market has been somewhat higher this week for all grades of old burley from common to good leaf. The plant belt situation at this time is favorable.

The following quotations fairly represent our market for burley tobacco 1895 crop:

Trash. (Dark or damaged tobacco) $0.75 to $1.50.

Common color trash, $2.00 to $4.00. Medium to good color trash, $4.00 to $6.00.

Common lugs, not color, $2.00 to $4.00.

Common color lugs, $4.50 to $7.00. Medium to good color lugs, $7.00 to $9.00.

Common to medium leaf $5.00 to $8.00. Medium to good leaf, $8.00 to $15. Good to fine leaf, $15 to $18.

Select wrapper leaf, $18 to $22.00.

The above quotations are not applicable to green and frosted crops.

Mrs. N. H. Trimble issued invitations to tea on Thursday afternoon and entertained in honor of Mrs. E. E. Gill. The guests were limited to members of the Musical, Literary, and Chautauqua Clubs and her Sunday School class. The house was decorated with potted plants, palms and roses—a bower of beauty. Tea was poured by Mrs. George Baird and Misses Isabel Harris and Mattie Bridgeforth. Souvenirs were Marshal Niel roses presented by Miss Marguerite Trimble. Every one left with best wishes for Mrs. Gill and her hostess.

12th DAY OF MAY, 1895

The Mt. Sterling Improvement Company will sell at public outcry for the highest and best bidder the following pieces of property:

One lot on the north side of East Main Street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., known as the Morris property; said lot fronting on Main Street, a distance of 594 feet more or less.

One lot on West Main Street, fronting on said street a distance of 71 feet, and known as the Maplin lot.

One house and lot on South Mayville Street, known as the McClosky house and the same now occupied by O. Laughlin & Son.

One lot on the East side of South Mayville Street, directly South of the Commercial Club Building, upon which are situated the coal yards of W. H. Bush & Son.

One house and lot on corner of West Locust and Sycamore streets and known as the Alex Noris lot and about 21 acres of land situated near the Kentucky and South Atlantic Railroad, and known as a part of the old Dillard Hazelrigg farm, the said 21 acres being well set in bluegrass and within the city limits.

At a meeting of the stockholders of said company, it was deemed best to sell this property and the directory has so ordered. The sale will be made at 2 o'clock p. m. on May 12, and there will be no bidding.

"The longest pole will knock the person in," the Company having determined to quit business and liquidate. Any one desiring to look at the property or any piece of it may call upon the Secretary, H. Clay McKee, who will take great pleasure in showing the same or any part of it. The terms will be made known on the day of sale.

ADAM BAUM,

President.
